

To: FCC

RE: Internet neutrality

I strongly support keeping existing Title II net neutrality rules in place. The internet is a public good and should not be set up with “fast lanes” for those that pay more and “slow lanes” for everyone else. The internet is a key tool for free speech and access to certain sites (e.g. those that criticize Comcast) should not be restricted.

Chris Greacen, Ph.D.